The restaurant received a mix of positive and negative reviews. While some customers were happy with the pizzas, others expressed disappointment in the quality and service. Gluten-free options were highlighted, but some felt that the staff needed better training. Issues with orders being incorrect and food arriving cold were also mentioned. However, there were instances of excellent customer service, such as free items given on a birthday order. Overall, the restaurant seems to have room for improvement in various areas, but also has potential to provide a good experience for customers seeking pizza options, including those with gluten-free needs.
