The Cross Keys offers a cozy atmosphere, friendly service, and ample parking for guests. While some diners enjoyed tasty dishes like halloumi fries and Sunday roast, others were disappointed by the quality of the fish and the lack of vegetarian options. Despite some mishaps with food allergies, the staff was welcoming and attentive. The Sunday lunches were especially popular, with well-cooked meats and generous portions. Live music added to the lively ambiance, although the conservatory could be drafty in windy weather. Overall, a mixed but generally positive experience with excellent roasts and friendly service that encourages return visits.
